V. PROGRAMS (10-15minutes):
   - Report out from Bridges, Teen Court, Parent Project, and the Lounge at Boys and Girls club to include more detailed descriptions of services provided so newer members, the Court and other justice partners are familiar with services being provided to youth. This may extend to more than one meeting.
   Sacha Marini presented on the Boys & Girls Club’s Teen Court program.
   - Teen Court provides services to youth who have committed offenses, withdrawn from school, and need additional assistance.
   - Referrals from Teen Court are received from many local agencies: Probation, Law Enforcement, Schools, and Community Agencies.
There are many partners of Teen Court who are utilized as services for youth. Teen Court’s goals are to shift from a court process to a support process to equip youth with valuable skills while building community and wellness. There are three programs within Teen Court: YOUth choose, Attendance Councils, and Teen Court hearings. Adult legal mentors assist youth with the Teen Court hearing process. Youths have two months to complete the Teen Court process. Once Teen Court is completed, about 10% of the participants continue to volunteer in the process. Teen Court can handle around 60 cases per year in both hearings and the YOUth Choose program. Youth Volunteers are in 8th-12th grade and receive community service work hours for their service. Anyone can observe Teen Court by signing a confidentiality waiver.

Jeremy Neilsen reported out about the Bridges program.
• The Bridges program started out as a grant funded program.
• The County in partnership with HCOE applied for an oversight grant around 2018 and awarded funding.

• The teams can respond to individual youth or entire school sites when a crisis occurs.
