

From: Mia Gonzales <mwg138@humboldt.edu>
Sent: Tuesday, June 4, 2019 11:59 AM
To: CEQAResponses <CEQAResponses@co.humboldt.ca.us>
Subject: Comment on Terra-Gen Turbines

Good Morning,

It has just come to my attention that there is a review process underway for a turbine project on ancestral Wiyot land. This is disheartening to learn that Humboldt will potentially lose one of the largest and most biodiverse native grassland ecosystems. With the state of our climate concerns it is imperative that these things be taken seriously. Animals will be displaced and threatened with the loss of not only their habitat but their means of survival. Disrupting one group of animals, starting with birds dying in turbine related accidents for example, will definitely topple a swath of other animals dependent on the balance of nature. As a concerned community member I urge that this process is critically reviewed. Think of where you stand in this time of urgency for the Earth.

Thank you for your time,
Mia Gonzales

172-1