We are going to stick with the two week limit. I am sure there will be exceptions, but this should be the rule.

I would like to propose that the time limit be one month rather than two weeks. For some of the out of area rescues it can take time for them to respond, have an available space, and then arrange transport.

At this point my plan will be to send out an email to the rescue groups that we work with informing them that a time limit has been put into place. I plan to give the rescue groups two weeks to get the rescue animals that have been here for a month or longer out. Then we will work on addressing the newer animals. Sometimes, the deadline is all that is needed to get the ball rolling. I will keep you posted on how things are going. You may receive some complaints from the rescues about the timeline.

I understand that this is a tough thing to do, but if those animals are unadoptable and no other placement is available, we will need to begin the euthanasia process. This will open kennels to animals that have a chance to be adopted. Please put together a plan to deal with these animals and email that plan to me. We simply do not have the room to keep animals long term. Again, if you have any questions let me know.

We currently have 8 dogs and 6 cats that are unadoptable and it has been more than 2 weeks since that determination was made.

My question right now would be how many animals do we currently have that have that meet the requirements below? Please put those stats together and email me back.

What about when an organization wants to get them out but is having a hard time finding a placement for them?

Good Afternoon Andre

After our inspection of the Animal Shelter it appeared we are keeping dogs and cats longer than required. Once an animal has been deemed unadoptable, no other organization is willing to take said animal, and two weeks has passed since that determination has been made, the shelter will euthanize those animals. We simply do not have the space to house animals that are unadoptable. This will free up space for animals we can find homes for. If you have any questions please call me.
